It is simple to use. When measuring something high in EMFs, the gauge will register in the red zone and beep. I took a gauss meter through my whole house and office and did a lot of rearranging to minimize exposure. The most amazing thing I found was that my alarm clock emitted EMFs 5 feet in every direction. Buy felodipine in Australia moved it across the room, then I noticed one of my cats was sleeping next to it so I got rid of it altogether and purchased a little battery operated one. Its the digital display LED type that is high in EMFs. The TV, which I thought would be the worst, only emitted harmful EMFs 3 feet out from the front buy caffeine in Australia 5 feet out from the sides.

TV Manufactures have really improved on this. The refrigerator was another shocker. It was in the high red zone 3 feet out from the front and sides. The oven also measured high. I don't have a microwave, so I went to a friend's house and my meter measured EMFs 5 to 6 feet in every direction when running and 3-4 feet when it was not. All I could think of was buy dexamethasone in Australia the children standing in front of the microwave oven waiting for their food; day after day. That's scary. I also wonder what it does to the food. Please keep this in mind when storing nutritional supplements.

Keep them away from EMFs, for it will reduce their potency. My computer also measured very buy dexamethasone in Australia for a good 3 feet.
